

Prepared for

[name hidden], head of the regional business unit, who has been in executive positions for 20 years.

Given your position, work experience as a senior-level executive, and your learning goals, we believe that you will benefit most from participation in an Advanced Management Program (AMP). AMPs are specially designed for experienced leaders who want to reach new career heights through learning latest business practices, insights, and trends, examining themselves as leaders, exploring their strengths and challenges, developing a leadership philosophy and greater leadership presence, and deepening emotional intelligence, all while interacting with other executives in different industries and functions.

One program we would highly recommend is run by the Wharton School - one of the top business schools in the USA, a world leader in business education and with strong expertise in comprehensive development of managerial skills.

Primary takeaway

The diversity of the participants and the global perspectives provided throughout the program were enlightening and helpful. Enriching experience and enlightening dialogue and discussions. Yes!

Things to improve

Professional take away was the recognition of my skills and the importance of leadership EQ. Personal take away are lifelong learning, "mentoring & mentee" relationships and friendships.

CEO in Construction, USA 5/5

Infrastructure

- Interaction score: 5
- Course materials score: 5
- School Infrastructure score: 5

Primary takeaway

Being self aware with a clear understanding of how to create and foster a culture of leadership behavior throughout the organization. Emotional Intelligence by Prof Siegal Barsade, Negotiation strategies by Prof Richard Shell, and the team challenge of creating a social impact company to solve a problem, are highlights that I can apply the experiences to my current position.

Things to improve

CEO / Board Member from Australia 4/5

Course

- Interesting score: 4
- Time and money score: 3

Instructors

- Engaging score: 3
- Effective score: 4
- Knowledgeable score: 4

Infrastructure

- Interaction score: 5
- Course materials score: 5
- School Infrastructure score: 5

Primary takeaway

The learning experience occurs in the environment with an extraordinary mix of people from all sorts of backgrounds. The learning is about groups & group dynamics across culturally diverse people. The course/program is the neabler of that experience.

Things to improve

I did both the shorter (2 week) Exec Devt Program and the longer Advanced Development Program 6 years apart. I found the shorter program more impactful than the longer program largely because the group was a more dynamic group & I had possibly grwon enormously in my experience over the intervening 6 years and found the longer program a repeat of the shorter program and as a consequence a little less impactful for me.
